- A new strategic road is now under construction from Bucharest to Constanta. It will pass through the province of Ialomita and through Dobruja to Constanta. Work on this road began in the summer of 1950, and the first section is completed to the village of Urziceni in the province of Islomita. The road will run parallel to the Danube-Black Sea Canal from Cernavoda to Constanta.
- 2. The width of the roads in Aumania is generally boween three to four meters. The width of the Stalin (formerly Brasov)-Bacau road is about four meters. At certain points the width varies, according to the areas which the road traverses.
- 3. Another road is to be constructed from Craiove to the port of Calafat where there is a floating bridge over the Danube River. This bridge connects Calafat with the Bulgarian port on the opposite side, Vidin. The inauguration of this bridge took place on 3 September 1950. The bridge was constructed by Soviet and Rumanian units of the Corps of Engineers. Anti-ircraft guns have been placed near the bridge.
- 4. The most important asphalt paved highway is that connecting Bucharest to the industrial town of Stalin. It is four meters wide and passes through the Ploesti oil fields.
- It is alleged that the construction of a strategic road from Brasov to the western frontier toward Hungary, will commence in the near future.
- 6. The highway, four meters wide, which starts from Galati and connects the city of Braila, Buzau, Ploesti, and ends at Bucharest was recently repaired. This highway runs about 500 to 400 meters away from the infield of Ianca, in the province of Brails and does not cross any bridges o military importance.
